Two days where you can build a closer relationship. You can talk privately, honestly and intimately about your:

- future lives together
- strengths and weaknesses
- desires, ambitions and goals
- attitudes about money, sex, children, family and
- role in the church and society.

“The weekend was a great opportunity to talk about our values and our future together. For us the weekend reaffirmed that we are heading down the right road. It was a great chance to talk without pressure and to resolve some issues.”

-Pam

Course costs are on the website and include meals. FOCCUS is available as an optional extra to add to your Engaged Encounter Weekend.

We request full payment on booking but alternatives can be discussed.

Accommodation is available at the venue should you need it. Bookings and payment for accommodation are made directly with the venue.

For details and registration go to www.engagedencounter.org.au

“As an atheist I was concerned about what would happen, but as soon as the talks started I was overwhelmingly glad to be here. I think EE provides an excellent coverage of what many people do not realize - relationship need work, skills (especially communication and forgiveness) and tools. I think everyone who is involved in a serious long-term relationship should be here.”
